ENTERED,

According to Act of Congress, in the year 1832, by CHAUNCEY A. GOODRICH, in the Clerk's Office of the District Court of Connecticut District.

ADVERTISEMENT.

This little work was commenced for the benefit of one of the author's children, who was entering on the study of the Latin language. It is now given to the public in the hope, that what has succeeded in a single instance, may prove generally useful;—a hope which has been strengthened by the favorable reception experienced by a similar introduction to the Greek language, which was prepared on a like occasion, about three years since.

The principle on which both these works proceed is this, that the grammar of a language can never be fully impressed upon the memory, except in the act of parsing; and that it is as useless, therefore, as it is tedious, for a child to spend three or four months upon the grammar, as a preparation for that which ought to be commenced at once. Most instructors have felt this, but have been unable to pursue any other course, from the character of the books which are generally used in parsing. The first page of the Epitome Historiæ Sacræ, for example, supposes in the learner an acquaintance with every part of the Latin grammar. All have witnessed the perplexity and discouragement which are felt by most young persons, from the extent of the field which is opened thus suddenly before them. The confusion of mind naturally produced by such a multitude of objects, too often gives rise to bad habits of study, if not to an unconquerable disgust for the whole pursuit.

To obviate these difficulties, is the design of the present work. The Latin grammar is divided into short, distinct portions; each of which is followed by a parsing lesson, containing no forms of inflection or construction, except such as are exemplified in that portion, or in those already gone over. The pupil is supposed, from the commencement, to know nothing in advance of his lesson, except that est and sunt, are verbs, meaning is and are. Thus much it is necessary to assume, in order to frame a sentence, or distinct enunciation of thought, which is far more interesting to the learner, than a mere collection of disconnected words. On this plan, the pupil begins to parse from the hour he enters on the study of the first declension; and carries on this exercise, at every step, as new portions of the grammar are presented, till he reaches the last rule of Syntax. Each principle being thus presented by itself, and immediately exemplified by numerous instances, is clearly understood, and deeply impressed on the memory. At proper intervals the process is inverted, and lessons are given in turning English into Latin, an exercise which ought to be early commenced and constantly pursued. The whole is concluded with easy dialogues and stories, taken from Scheller's Grammar, and the works of Erasmus, making the whole amount of Latin in the volume equal to that of the Epitome Historiæ Sacræ, and of a far more amusing character, it is believed, than is found in most books of the kind. A translation is given of the earlier lessons, to relieve the pupil for a short time at the commencement, from the perplexity of looking out the words. At a later period he will be expected to use the vocabulary which is appended to the volume. The examples chosen have been taken chiefly, with slight modifications, from the writings of Cicero, Cæsar, and other elegant writers, or have been formed upon models, it is believed, of good authority.

In the vocabulary, the pupil is left to decide the declension of nouns from the termination of the genitive, and to carry out for himself, the perfect and supine of regular verbs of the first and fourth conjugations. This is done to habituate him to rely on general rules in such cases.

In the conjugation of verbs, some supines given in the dictionaries, are omitted, on the authority of Hickie's grammar.

March 15, 1832.

PRONUNCIATION.

*** The pupil should not study these rules till he reviews the book; but the instructer should explain and enforce them from the commencement, in conversation.

PLACE OF THE ACCENT.

I. Words of two syllables have the accent always on the first; as, liber, le'go, a'des.

II. In words of more than two syllables,

1. If the penult (or last syllable but one) is long, it takes the accent; as,  $am\bar{a}$  'cus,  $am\bar{a}$  'bam, audi'rem.

2. If the penult is short or common, the accent falls on the antepenult, (or last syllable but two;) as, tem'poris, amav'eram, ten'ebris.

Words with enclitics, as regnum'que, homines've, nobis'cum, are considered as single words.*

RULES FOR THE PENULT.

As the place of the accent depends on the quantity of the penult, the following rules should be inculcated on the pupil.

I. A vowel before two consonants, or a double consonant (x, z, and j,) is long, by position; as, inten'do, predix'it.

* Enclitics are such words as que, ve, &c. added to others, as if they were part of the word.

Exc. A vowel before a mute and liquid is common.*

II. A vowel before another vowel is short; as, ratio, religion;

Exc. The genitives in ius, given on page 30, are long; and also e, having an i before and after it, as speciëi.

III. A diphthong is always long.†

SOUND OF THE VOWELS.

I. The final a, in words of more than one syllable, has the sound of ah; as pen'na.

II. The penult, when accented, has a long sound if followed by a vowel or single consonant; as, ō'men, ami'cus, a'des; but a short sound if followed by two consonants or the double consonant x; as, ad'sum, ax'is.

Exc. 1. The first i in tibi and sibi is pronounced short, tibby, sibby.

2. If the vowel in the penult is followed by a mute and liquid, or by a single consonant with h, it has the long sound; as, ma'tris, tro'chus.

III. The antepenult, when accented, has a short sound; as, mem'oro, sid'era, facultat'ibus.

Exc. 1. U before a single consonant has its long

* The mutes are p, b; t, d; c, k, q, and g. The liquids are l, m, n, and r.

† In all cases not included under these three rules, the penult is marked long (*) or short (*) in the vocabulary. When the pupil begins to look out words, he should be instructed, therefore, to observe in all cases, whether the penult is long or short, and lay the accent accordingly.

sound, as fu'gito; but before two consonants it follows the rule, as suff'icit.

2. A vowel in the antepenult, when followed by another vowel or the letter h, has the long sound; as, arietes, trainius.

3. The antepenult is sounded long, when followed by a single consonant, and e or i in the penult with a vowel succeding; as, ra'tio, do'ceo, ma'neo. But i in these circumstances remains short; as, vid'eo.

SOUND OF CONSONANTS.

C and G are hard (like k, g) before a, o, and u, as caveo, collum, gula; soft (like s, j) before e, i, and y, as celo, gener, gigno, Gyges.

Ch has the sound of k; as, charta.

LATIN PARSING.

NOUNS AND ADJECTIVES.

A Noun is a word which can stand alone, or which we can think of without adding to it any other word. Thus, we can think of a book, a pen, or a crime, without joining to it any other word.

An Adjective is a word which cannot stand alone, which we cannot think of without adding or joining it to some noun. Thus, we cannot think of my, of large, or of good, without saying my pen, a large book, a good horse, or something similar.* Hence it is called an adjective, because it must be joined or added to some noun, in order to make sense.

Here let the pupil be asked, Is house a noun or an adjective? What is man, boy, love, anger? What is bad, long, short, small?

In the following phrases, let the pupil decide which is the noun, and which the adjective, by considering which can be thought of alone, and which must be added to a noun to make sense.

* It has not been thought best, at first, to distinguish pronominal adjectives from other adjectives, lest the young pupil should be perplexed.

My pen is good. Thy pen is bad. The arrow is short. The boys are playful. The girls are pretty. Anger is wicked. Friendship is pleasing.

Nouns and adjectives are varied by number, gender, and case.

There are two numbers, the singular, which denotes one, as boy; the plural, which denotes more than one, as boys.

There are three genders, the masculine, feminine, and neuter. Sometimes a noun may be either male or female, according to its sex, and then it is said to be of the common gender.

There are six cases, the nominative, genitive, dative, accusative, vocative, and ablative.

Agreement and Government.

Words are said to agree with each other, when they must be taken together in order to make sense. Thus, when we say a good horse, the adjective good, agrees with the noun, horse. So when we say the man is here, the verb is, agrees with its nominative, man.

We may always know what a word agrees with, by asking the question, Who? or What? Thus, Who is here? Ans. The man. What is good? Ans. The horse. Let the pupil, therefore, ask these questions in every sentence.

A word is said to govern another word, which depends upon it in the sentence. Thus, when we say Charles loves study, the verb loves, governs the noun, study. So when we say, I am going to church, the preposition to, governs the noun, church. Agreement and government are called Syntax.

Tua est gloria victoriæ.

Spuma undarum est alba.

Mea indulgentia est causa tuæ inertiæ.

Est magna turba feminārum.

Thine is the glory of the victory.

The foam of the waves is white.

My indulgence is the cause of thy idleness.

There is a great crowd of women.

5. Prepositions govern the accusative and ablative.*

Tua ira est sine causâ. rimonias.

Sunt rixæ inter puellas.

In opacâ silvâ est ara. Sub undis sunt multæ pretiosæ gemmæ.

Mea pecunia est in tuâ arcâ. My money is in thy trunk.

Thy anger is without cause. Feminæ sunt pronæ ad que- Women are prone to complaints.

> There are contentions among the girls.

> In a dark grove is an altar. Under the waves are many precious jewels.

The nouns filia and nata, a daughter; dea, a goddess; anima, the soul; equa, a mare; famula, a female slave; liberta, a freed-woman; mula, a female mule; have the dative and ablative in abus, to distinguish them from nouns of the second declension.

Plus, more, has only the neuter gender in the singular, and is thus declined.

COMPOUND PRONOUNS.*

Pronouns are compounded variously:

1. With other pronouns; as, isthic, isthæc, isthoc, isthuc, or istuc. Acc. Isthunc, isthanc, isthoc, or isthuc. Abl. isthoc, isthac, isthoc. Nom. and acc. plur. neut. isthæc, of iste and hic. So illic, of ille and hic.

2. With some other parts of speech; as, hujusmödi, cujusmödi, &c. mēcum, tēcum, sēcum, nobiscum, vobiscum, quocum, or quîcum, and quibuscum.

3. With some syllables added; as, tute of tu and te, used only in the nom. egomet, tūtēmet, suīmet, through all the cases, thus, meīmet, tuīmet, &c. of ego, tu, sui, and met: hicce, hæcce, hocce; hujusce, hisce, hosce; of his and ce; whence, hujuscēmodi, ejuscemodi, cujuscemodi. So, idem, the same, compounded of is and dem, which is thus declined.

* Not to be studied at first, except idem.

Singular.	N.	idem,	éădem,	ĭdem,
Ü	G.	ejus'dem,	ejus'dem,	ejus'dem,
	D.	eidem,	eīdem,	eīdem,
		eundem,	eandem,	ĭdem,
		īdem,	eădem,	ĭdem,
		eōdem,	eâdem,	eōdem,
Plural.	N.	iīdem,	eædem,	eadem,
•	G.	eorun'dem,	eoran'dem,	eorun'dem,
	D.		eïsdem, or iiso
		eosdem,	easdem,	eădem,
6.4	V.	iīdem,	eædem,	eădem,
	A.		eïsdem, or iis	dem.

The pronouns which we find most frequently compounded, are quis and qui.

Quis in composition is sometimes the first, sometimes the last, and sometimes likewise the middle part of the word compounded; but qui is always the first.

1. The compounds of quis, in which it is put first, are quisnam, who? quispiam, quisquam, any one; quisque, every one; quisquis, whosoever; which are thus declined Genitive.

Cujusnam,
Cujuspiam,
Cujusquam,
Cujusque,
Cujusque,
Cujuscujus.
Cujuscujus.
Cujuscujus.
Cujuscujus.
Cujuscujus.
Cujuscujus.
Cujuscujus.

And so in the other cases according to the simple quis. But quisquis has not the fem. at all, and the neuter only in the nominative and accusative. Quisquam has also quicquam for quidquam; accusative, quenquam, without the feminine. The plural is scarcely used.

t.t. ANY TWE

2. The compounds of quis, in which quis is put last, have qua in the nom, sing, fem.; and in the nominative and accusative plur. neut. as aliquis, some; ecquis, who? of et and quis; also, nequis, siquis, numquis, which for the most part are read separately; thus, ne quis, si quis, num quis. They are thus declined:

Nominative.

Alĭquis,	alĭqua,	alĭquod	or aliquid.
Ecquis,	ecqua or ecquæ,	ecquod	or ecquid.
Si quis,	si qua,	si quod	or si quid.
Ne quis,	ne qua,	ne quod	or ne quid.
Num quis,	num qua,	num quod	or num quid.

Genitive.	Dative.
Alicujus,	Alīcui.
Eccujus,	Eccui.
Si cujus,	Si cui.
Ne cujus,	Ne cui.
Num cujus,	Num cui

3. The compounds which have quis in the middle, are ecquisnam, who? unusquisque, gen. uniuscujusque, every one. The former is used only in the nom. sing, and the latter wants the plural.

4. The compounds of qui are quicunque, whosoever; quīdam, a certain one; quīlibet, quīvis, any one, whom you please; which are thus declined:

Nominative.

Quicunque,	quæcunque,	quodcunque.
Quidam,	quædam,	quoddam or quiddam.
Quilibet,	quælibet,	quodlibet or quidlibet.
Quīvis,	quævis,	quodvis or quidvis.

Genitive.	Dative.
Cujuscunque,	Cuicunque.
Cujusdam,	Cuidam.
Cujuslibet,	Cuilibet.
Cujusvis,	Cuivis.

Order in which words are placed.

Hitherto words have been placed in the English order. But the general principles of the Latin language are different. Some of these it is desirable the pupil should now understand.

1. The adjective, if not emphatic, is commonly placed after the noun with which it agrees.

Ira tua est sine causâ. Puer bonus est beatus.

| Thy anger is without cause. A good boy is happy.

2. The verb is very often put at the end of the clause or sentence.

Vulnera<sup>1</sup> mea occulta sunt. | My wounds are hidden. Somnus<sup>2</sup> imago<sup>3</sup> mortis<sup>4</sup> est. | Sleep is an image of death.

3. The genitive is commonly placed before the noun which governs it.

Casaris virtus insignis est. | Casar's virtue is distinguished.

Certaminis laus penes Brutum est.

The praise of the contest is with Brutus.

4. An emphatic word stands in the most prominent part of the sentence, and commonly at the beginning.

Magna est veritas.9 Mors4 pro patria clara est. Great is truth. Death for our country is honorable.

<sup>1</sup> Vulnus-ĕris, n. 2 Somnus-i, m. 3 Imago-ĭnis, f. 4 Mors-tis, f. 5 Cæsar-eris, m. 6 Virtus-utis, f. 7 Certamen-ĭnis, n. 8 Laus, laudis, f. 9 Veritas-atis, f.

VERBS.

A verb is a word which signifies to be, to do, or to suffer.

Verbs are of three kinds, active, passive, and neuter.

An active verb denotes an action which passes from an agent to an object; as, Charles strikes John.

A passive verb denotes the receiving of some action from another; as, Charles is struck.

A neuter verb expresses simply the state or condition of a thing; as, I sit, I walk. Here the act does not pass beyond the agent himself.

Adverb, Conjunction, and Interjection.

As the adverb, conjunction, &c. will hereafter be used occasionally in the sentences selected, the following definitions should now be learned.

AN ADVERB is a word which qualifies verbs, adjectives, or other adverbs; as, He feels strongly; It is very warm.

Some adverbs are compared like the neuter of adjectives; as, sæpe, often; sæpius, very often; sæpissime, most often.

Conjunctions are words which connect other words.

Such are et, and; que, and; sed, but; &c.

Interjections are words thrown in to express emotion; as, O, heu, alas, &c.

Rule for Translating.

Take, first the NOMINATIVE, with its adjective, genitive, or other words belonging to it—next the VERB, with any adverb, which may qualify it—then the word governed by the verb, or the nominative after it—lastly the preposition, if there is one, with the word governed by it.

Let the pupil conjugate the following verbs.

FIRST Cons. Apto, to fit; curo, to take care of; pugno, to fight; laudo, to praise.

SECOND CONJ. Habeo, to have; debeo, to owe;

moneo, to admonish; taceo, to be silent.

60 Verbs.

THIRD CONJ. Facio, to make, or do; fugio, to flee; capio, to take.

FOURTH CONJ. Dormio, to sleep; punio, to punish; nescio, not to know; vestio, to clothe.

A large number of verbs have the perfect, and sometimes the supine, of a different conjugation from the present. Thus, Do, to give, is conjugated, do, dare, dedidatum. But verbs are usually ranged under that conjugation to which the present infinitive belongs. Many verbs, especially of the second conjugation, have no supine.

Practice on the Tree of Formation.

When the active voice of the first conjugation has been committed to memory, let the pupil be practised in the following manner:

1. Let a verb, as laudo, be given him, and let him, after conjugating it, read the several parts from the tree, as laudare, laudabam, &c.

2. Let him then tell the names of these several parts—the instructor asking, what tense is laudabam? laudabo? &c.

3. Let him tell the meaning of each tense in English, turning,

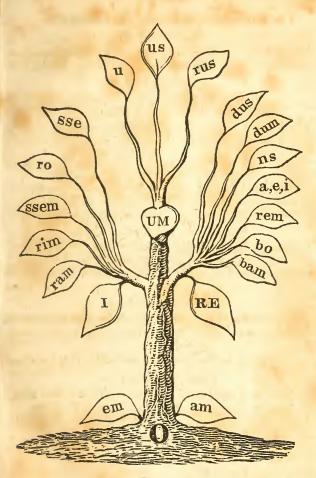

if necessary, to that tense, to aid his memory.

4. Let him then be taught to trace back the tenses to that part of the verb from which they are derived. Thus, What does laudarum come from? &c. So, let second and third persons be run back to first persons, and they again back to the four parts of the verb.

When the passive voice is committed to memory, let the pupil be shown how the tenses dependant on the present indicative and infinitive, are formed by changing the final m of the active into r. Let the same course of practice be then adopted with the passive.

Let this exercise be continued through all the conjugations, with a variety of words, and be applied daily after his other recitations, when the pupil begins to translate.

The compounds of Eo are conjugated after the same manner;  $\ddot{a}d$ -,  $\ddot{a}b$ -, ex-,  $\ddot{o}b$ -,  $r\ddot{e}d$ -,  $s\ddot{u}b$ -,  $p\ddot{e}r$ -,  $c\ddot{o}$ -,  $\ddot{i}n$ -,  $pr\ddot{e}r$ -, ante-,  $pr\ddot{o}d$ -eo: only in the perfect, and the tenses formed from it, they are usually contracted: thus, adeo, adii, seldom adivi, aditum, adire, to go to; Perf. adii, adiisti, or adisti, &c. adie and adivi, &c. So likewise veneo, venii,—to be sold, (compounded of venum and eo.) But Ambio,  $\ddot{v}vi$ ,  $\ddot{v}tum$ ,  $\ddot{v}re$ , to surround, is a regular verb of the fourth conjugation.

Queo, I can, and Nequeo, I cannot, are conjugated in the same way as eo: only they want the imperative and the gerunds; and the participles are seldom used.

DEFECTIVE VERBS.

Verbs are called defective, which are not used in certain tenses, numbers, and persons.

Preteritive Verbs.*

These three,  $\bar{o}di$ ,  $c\alpha pi$ , and  $m\bar{e}m\bar{i}ni$ , are only used in the preterite tenses, (those derived from the perfect,) and therefore are called preteritive verbs; though they have sometimes likewise a present signification; thus,

Odi, I hate, or have hated, oderam, oderim, odissem, odero, odisse. Participles, osus, osurus; exosus, perosus.

Capi, I begin, or have begun, caperam, erim, issem, ero, isse. Supine, captu. Participles, captus, capturus.

Mēmīni, I remember, or have remembered, memineram, -erim, -issem, -ero, -isse. Imperative, memento, mementote.

More Defective Verbs.

Of verbs which want many of their chief parts, the following most frequently occur: Aio, I say; inquam, I say; forem, I should be; ausim, contracted for ausus sim, I dare; faxim, I'll see to it, or I will do it; ave, and salve, save you, hail, good-morrow; cedo, tell thou, or give me; quaso, I pray.

A verb is called impersonal, which has only the terminations of the third person singular, but does not admit any person or nominative before it.

Impersonal verbs, in English, have before them the neuter pronoun it, which is not considered as a person; thus, dēlectat, it delights; dēcet, it becomes; contingit, it happens; ēvěnit, it happens:

ABLATIVE ABSOLUTE.

LXVII. A noun and a participle are put in the ablative, when their case depends on no other word; * as,

Opere peracto, ludemus, Our work being finished, we will play.

Latin Lesson.

Ille, Tarquinio reguante, in Italiam venit. Rege¹ hæc locuto,² legati decessērunt.³ Anno exacto,⁴ Romani bellum instauraverunt.

Rege interfecto, milites fugēre.

Bellis civilibus confectis, Cæsar dictator creatus est.

Pace data, exercitus Romam redactus<sup>14</sup> est.

* The rule means, that the noun, when there is no word to govern it, stands absolutely or ungoverned, with the participle. The ablative absolute is usually separated from the rest of the sentence by commas before and after it. By recollecting this, the pupil will easily distinguish the ablative absolute.

Louis XI. and his Courtiers.

Rex dono acceperat1 decem millia coronatorum. Quùm igitur ea pecunia exprompta esset<sup>2</sup> in mensâ, sic locutus est rex circumstantibus.<sup>3</sup> "Quid? Non videor vobis rex opulentus? Ubi collocabimus4 tantam pecuniæ vim.5 Donum est, donari6 vicissim convenit.7 Ubi nunc (sunt) amici mei, quibus<sup>8</sup> pro suis in me officiis debeo. Adsint<sup>9</sup> nunc, priusquam effluat hic thesaurus." Ad hanc vocem accurrere<sup>10</sup> permulti. Rex quùm vidisset aliquem maximè inhiantem, <sup>11</sup> et jam oculis devorantem <sup>12</sup> pecuniam, ad eum conversus, 13 amīce, inquit, "quid tu narras?" Ille commemorabat se diù alluisse14 falcones15 regios; alius aliud afferebat. Rex omnes benignè audiebat. Hæc consultatio dilata est16 in longum tempus, quò diutius17 spe metuque torqueret omnes. Adstabat inter hos primus cancellarius, nam hunc accire18 rex jusserat. Is cæteris prudentior non prædicabat officia sua, sed agebac19 spectatorem fabulæ. Ad hunc tandem conversus13 rex, "quid, inquit, narrat meus cancellarius? Solus ille nihil petit, nec prædicat officia sua." "Ego, inquit cancellarius, plus accepi benignitate regia, quam promeruerim."20 Ibi rex versus ad alios, "næ ego sum, inquit, regum omnium um magnificentissimus, qui tam opulentum habeam cancellarium." His magis accensa est<sup>21</sup> spes omnibus, futurum<sup>22</sup> ut pecunia cæteris distribueretur, quandoquidèm ille nihil ambiebat. Ad hunc modum ubi satis diù lusisset<sup>23</sup> rex coegit<sup>24</sup> cancellarium ut totam eam summam domum auferret.<sup>25</sup> Mox versus ad cæteros jam mæstos, "vobis, inquit, erit alia expectanda<sup>26</sup> occasio."
